

IMPACTED CANINE

WHAT IS AN IMPACTED CANINE? An impacted canine is a tooth that has veered slightly off course during its eruption path and is now “stuck” and unable to finish eruption on its own.

WHAT

IS CANINE EXPOSURE? Canine exposure is a procedure that is normally performed at an oral surgeon or periodontist's office to help redirect the canine to finish eruption. During this procedure a small gold chain is attached to the tooth, which allows Dr. Dueckman and Dr. Felty to help redirect the canine's path of eruption during orthodontic treatment.
